TUCK'S POST CARD

CARTE POSTALE. POSTKARTE.

Greenwich Hospital. First from the river we see the two domes of the famous hospital, and then the broad bank-side terrace 865 ft. long with two granite obelisks, one commemorating Bellot, the Frenchman, who died seeking for Franklin, and the other in memory of the Marines who were killed in New Zealand in 1863. Greenwich was a palace from the Conquest till the Civil War, and now it is a hospital for sailors of all nations. About 1,000 children are educated in the Naval School attached to it.
